

We measure up

ISO 9001:2000 Registration

Listening to what our customers truly want, and then consistently delivering the best possible service and solutions has been our goal from the founding of our company in 1936. In 2002, Bassett Mechanical became one of the first in its industry to turn that goal into a “certified” reality with its registration as an ISO 9001:2000 certified company.

Through this demanding process of quality management, ISO-registered companies have proven their ability to consistently and professionally meet rigorous standards for organizational management. Customers of ISO-registered companies know they can expect products and services of exceptional quality.

In 2002, hard work and attention to detail resulted in Bassett Mechanical becoming the first ISO 9001:2000 registered mechanical contractor in Wisconsin, and one of only a handful in the United States!
