

BASSETT MECHANICAL ACHIEVES ONE MILLION MAN HOURS WITHOUT A LOST TIME INJURY

JULY 23, 2015

Bassett Mechanical is proud to announce its achievement in reaching 1,000,000 man hours worked without a lost time injury. This accomplishment is the direct result of the company's strong commitment to safety and deeply rooted culture of employee involvement and accountability. Because safety is one of the company's core values, it is their top priority to provide a safe working environment for their people – both in Bassett's 268,000 sq. ft. manufacturing facility and on job sites across the country. A focus is placed on providing employees with the best safety equipment available as well as extensive and on-going training to "ensure associates arrive home the same way they came to work" - the motto of Kim Bassett, President and CEO.

This impressive accomplishment on its own is even more significant when considering the size of the company (350+ employees) and the high risk nature of the work they do.

The entire organization's cultural emphasis on safety can be attributed to strong leadership and full support from ownership. "While we have developed effective protocols and guidelines intended to minimize the risk of injury, our associates should be commended for their commitment to implementing them so effectively" said Kim Bassett.
